Concert Service at Spiritual Academy Sunday.

At the special concert service to be held at the Spiritual Academy, Park street, tomorrow evening at 7.30, Organist Charles A. Dowsett has arranged a very attractive program of instrumental and vocal numbers, for which he will have the assistance of Miss Wolcott, prima donna soloist at the Broad theater; Mrs. Charles S. Twist, Mrs. Charles S. Twist, and violinist; Miss Hadie Blackstone, Miss Beecham and others.

This service was to have been held last Sunday evening, but on account of the accident to the heater, it was postponed.

Christmas Shoppers Delighted.

Besides the many favorable comments received by the Plaut-Cadden company since the opening of their new building, it is a very ordinary occurrence during the holiday season which has just started to hear ladies express the greatest satisfaction at the exceedingly fine conveniences at the Plaut-Cadden company's store. Many who had started out to make a day of shopping have found such a variety of beautiful things for Christmas gifts at the Plaut-Cadden company that half the trouble of looking around has been done away with, so on lady expressed her surprise. There was no fine array of merchandise gotten under one roof as the Plaut-Cadden company are now showing in their new five-story building. No doubt hundreds will take advantage of this shopping center.

Cameras for Christmas at Cranston's.

Mr. Cranston began selling cameras and photo supplies in Norwich back in 1880, and for many years was the only Kodak dealer in this end of our state. His long experience enables him to give competent advice in the selection and purchase of outfits and materials. His salesladies, too, are well posted in all that pertains to photography. He carries the largest and best selected assortment of cameras and photo supplies to be found in this vicinity, and his prices will please you.

There are just two things which every up-to-date family ought to have. One is a camera and the other is a photograph. The best Christmas present is something that brings joy to all the household, from baby up to grandpa. All can and do enjoy a Kodak and a photograph. The best place to get a Kodak is at Cranston's well known store on Main street.

THE AUDITORIUM.

When it comes to vaudeville, the Auditorium certainly delivers the goods and their motto, "Always the best show in town," is lived up to, to the letter. A novel comedy sketch will be presented next week by Guy Barrett & Co. entitled "The Welch Farewell Dream." The theme of this sketch has all the elements of originality and is out of the usual run. Special scenic and electrical effects are carried for this act.

Joe Hearn and Matt Butler, a team of refined singers, novelty wooden shoe and grotesque and eccentric soft shoe dancers, have a classy specialty enabling them to travel with the best in the business.

The most accomplished, most daring, and most fascinating wire artist in the world, Miss Lucile Omega, in her marvelous performances on the silver wire, will demonstrate that she is incomparably superior to all others.

That harmonizing couple, Maude and Marion Cleveland, will be heard in a budget of songs and gossip.

The captivating child march song, "Toodles," will be pleasingly sung by Miss Morelle.

One of the many feature pictures will be the beautifully colored religious picture, "The Prodigal Son," etc.

BREED THEATER.

Custer's Last Battle, Sensational Indian Picture.

One of the most exciting and brilliant films seen here in a long time is the great feature picture shown at the Breed theater for the balance of the week, entitled "Custer's Last Battle," or, "On the Little Big Horn."

This picture is a distinct novelty inasmuch as it is photographed directly upon historic ground, for the battle of the Little Big Horn was fought in the Indian band who trapped Custer and his limited number of men, completely annihilating the brave little force.

The picture abounds with numberless views of Indians; in fact, the Indians are quite as much in evidence as Custer and his men, and the gaudily painted bodies of the Sioux form a picturesque feature of this gigantic film, their marvelous riding being the subject of much comment.

The sublimely beautiful scenery of the Biograph feature picture betrays the superb action that takes place in front of it, and the closing scene, where the mountaineer's honor is saved, and the pair of lovers wind their way downward through the valley until the shades of night close them from view, is a series of panoramic beauty.

There is some novel comedy and the wonderful French pictures are very new in conception and gorgeous in scenic splendor.

The great tidal waves observed at Marseilles, France, June 15, 1909, appear to have been caused by the unusually high electric charge of the atmosphere which is known to have existed during the period of the earthquakes which devastated the south of France. The powerful attraction exerted on the surface of the earth by this electric charge caused earthquakes on land and tidal waves in the Mediterranean.
